Dear Sir:

Re: [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] et al, F.L.D. No. 117 of 2006

Thank you for your letter of today's date.

You state that "We will not be providing Property Statements as yours of December 7th enclosed your client's Financial Statement only and requested same from us." (Emphasis added) Respectfully, you are mistaken, our clients' property information was included and provided to you (eg. see pages 6 to 9), and we do request the same from your client. Please provide forthwith. Thank you.

No income tax returns or any other supporting documents were included with Mr. [REDACTED]'s Financial Statement. Obviously, the tax returns and supporting documents are an essential part of any Financial Statement. No explanation was given, and Ms. [REDACTED] provided hers. Please forward.

We kindly ask, lastly, that you provide personal income tax returns (and the included financial statements, etc.) for Mr. [REDACTED] forthwith. Also, we notice that Ms. [REDACTED]'s tax returns are incomplete; missing pages. For example, the 2005 Return is only three pages long, and is missing the important Page 4 and all supporting documents and materials. Where are the T4s (or T4 summaries) and the accompanying Schedules and calculations.

We also kindly request your reply to our inquiry concerning Francis Stewart's credentials and qualifications. We are hoping that you do not wish to dispute his qualifications as an expert.

We wish to receive all of these requests Friday a.m., so that we may review before the end of the day. We thank you very kindly for your attention to these important matters.

Yours truly,
